Dear Jeff,

Attached are the photos I took earlier this week. It shows homes throughout Cannon Beach of homes that have planting, potted plants, chairs and also parking signs that people are using to keep tourists from parking in front of their homes.

I have been told and so have my neighbors across the street from my home, Cathey and Doug, that we could not put any plantings or lighting or no parking signs in front of our homes within the city property in front of our homes. That we had to remove them immediately.

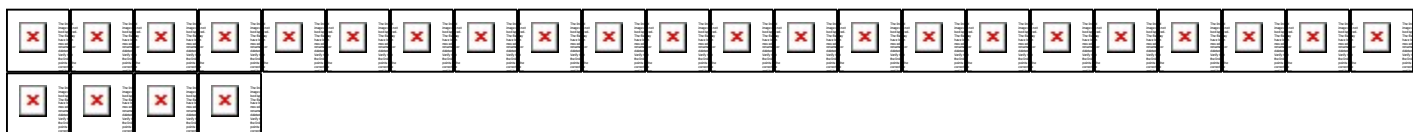

Each year over the past 3 years, I was told I could not put no parking signs in front of my home, even if it was on my property.

Travis came to my home and asked me to move my lighting back to the property line, which I did. Travis has always been very kind and professional in his dealings with me. Even though, I may not like what he had to say, I always appreciate his demeanor and respectful manor in presenting his requests. I understand, he is doing what he is told by the powers that be.

Here is the problem, Cannon Beach is not applying the law fairly or equitably throughout the town. As you can see from the attached photos, that there are many, many homes that are not following the law and haven't been for a very long time. They are not being asked to remove these items. They have been there for weeks now and lots of these planting have obviously been there for much longer.

I am requesting that Cannon Beach apply the law fairly to all homes not just select homes in certain areas.

Thank you,
